

Notes:

1) The Digest consists of Entities which in turn contain the high level objects and roles shown here. The Entities themselves have been left out to better illustrate the objects and roles available in the model.

2) LEXS includes a number of role types, and in many cases there are multiple roles of each type. In these cases, the roles shown represent the generic role name. For example, there are many roles of SubjectType, but only only the with the name Subject is shown here.

